Taurus Broadhurst won the first Audience Choice Award at the 32nd Annual Choreographers' Showcase in January 2015. Because of this win, his company has been granted a NextLOOK residency in the 2015–2016 season. In his choreographic work, Broadhurst combines the wide-ranging currents of African Diaspora cultures to create a contemporary African aesthetic. His work is grounded in traditional West African dance and fuses movement from modern, house and hip-hop to convey diverse, contemporary stories that embody the griot tradition through movement. His new work, with the help of poet Goldie Patrick and the community, will explore connectivity of humanity through Love: Self, Familial and Community.

NextLOOK is a satellite arts partnership program with Joe's Movement Emporium in Mount Rainier, Maryland. This program provides local and regional artists with time, space and dollars to develop their artistic voice, incorporating audiences in the creative process. All residencies and public events are held at Joe's.
